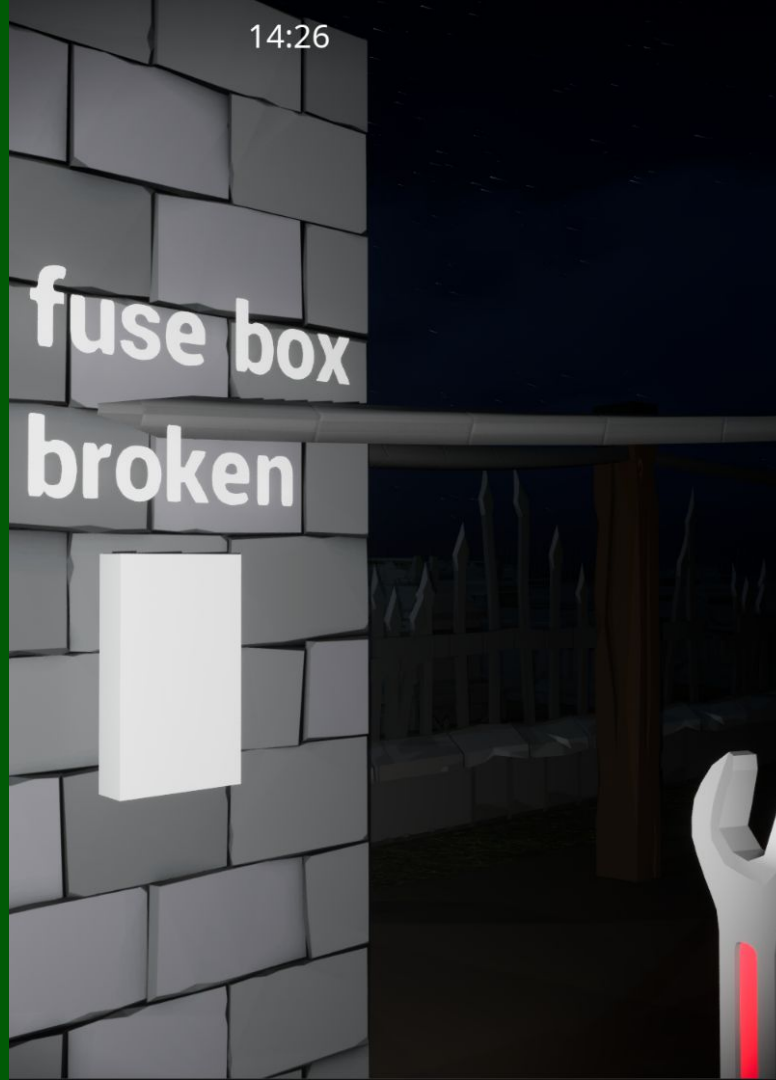
Elevator pitch

A co-op horror game where up to 4 players are maintenance workers in a haunted graveyard.

Do your job, survive the night, extract alive.

But don’t worry - even if you die, you’re still in the game!



The spectator problem

- In Lethal Company / Phasmophobia, early death results in 10-15 minutes of passive spectating
- This kills momentum and session engagement
- In Gravekeepers, death is a class change, not “Game Over”

Gameplay

It's like Lethal Company or R.E.P.O but you're still in the game after you die

Death isn’t the end

Ghost players can trigger lights, knock over objects, and mislead enemies - but can’t directly communicate with living players

Cooperation

Maintenance tasks will force you to communicate, and the “residents” of the graveyard hear everything you say or do

Randomness

Weather and nighttime events will affect what’s going on in the graveyard and you’ll have to adapt

UGC

- Proven solution for game longevity
- Strategy: day-1 integration
  - CurseForge SDK for official modding support
  - Overwolf SDK for easier clip generation and other add-ons
